“What schools are you applying to for next year?” Ravi asked. “I’m thinking JCC. Maybe MSU.”

“Yale,” I said.

He gave me a suspicious look.
“For real?”

I shrugged. “I’m ambitious.”

It was winter recess a year ago. That's when I first knew.

My sister's friend came home. His sweatshirt said "YALE."

He told me about the school. Brick towers rise above fall leaves. Students come from around the world. The teachers are like rock stars. Even the food is delicious.

His words lit a fire in me.

I went to see my advisor. “Your grades are good,” she said. “I see you’re in a number of clubs.”

I nodded.

She gave me a cautious look. "Let me be straight with you. It will take more to get into Yale."

EDIBLE
FOREST

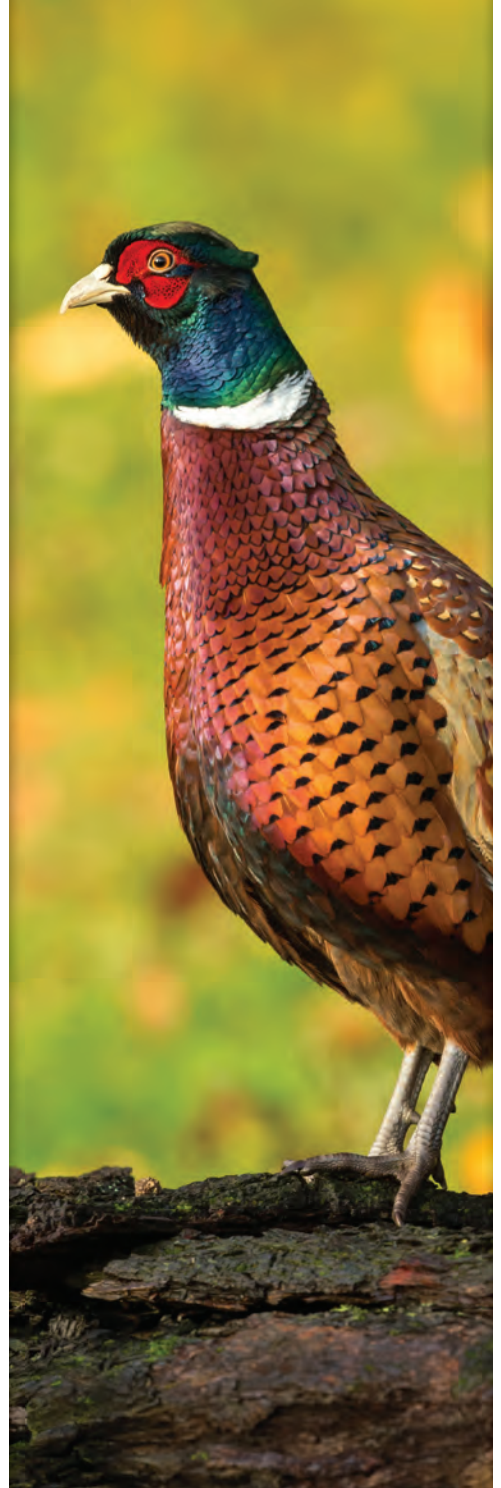

SUFFIXES: -able and -ible

You may have seen a news report. A man gets lost in the woods. He is alone for weeks.

Yet somehow, he stays alive. It seems remarkable. How is it possible?

Hunting game can help. Fish are even better. But these may not be available. Catching them is not always feasible.

A close-up photograph of a person's hand holding a bright orange chanterelle mushroom. The person is wearing a red and black plaid shirt. The background is a blurred forest with green foliage and tree trunks. A white text box is overlaid on the upper part of the image.

A forest is full of plants. But it hides a secret. Some plants are edible. Knowing which ones is a valuable skill. It can be a matter of life or death.

Pine trees have edible parts. The outer bark is not digestible. But a white layer is under it. This is bendable like rubber. Humans can eat it.
